From Hospital Employee to Pulpit

The Rev. Dr. Lofthouse, former Methodist Pastor of South Rondout, now Superintendent of Poughkeepsie District of the Methodist Conference.

From an employee of the Middletown State Hospital to the superintendency of the Poughkeepsie District of the New York M. E. Conference in about 20 years, is the remarkable advance of the Rev. Walter A. Lofthouse for the last four years pastor of Tremont Temple, New York city, who has recently been assigned to the district by the Presiding Bishop.

Mr. Lofthouse, while working in Middletown, became a member of St. Paul's M. E. Church, during the pastorate of the late Rev. Benjamin H. Burck. He became interested in religious work and finally began studying for the ministry. Dr. Lofthouse was pastor of the South Rondout Methodist Church in 1908. His pastoral record is: Erie Conference, 1899-1900, Townsville, Pa.; 1901-02, Albion, Pa.; 1904, Forestville; 1905-06, left without appointment to attend Drew Theological Seminary, New York Conference, 1907, South Rondout; 1908, Moreau, N.Y.; 1909-12, Franklin; 1913, Griffin, N.Y.; 1914, Monroe; 1915-21, Walden; 1922-25, Tremont Temple, New York.

KINGSTON, N. Y., APRIL 16, 1926.

WHY NOT BETTER MILK NOW?

The latest milk report shows continued progress in providing Kingston with clean raw milk and a marked improvement in the cleanliness of pasteurized milk. This month the bacterial count of Grade B pasteurized milk is higher than that of the Grade B raw milk sold by only 13 dealers. Only one dealer sold raw milk that was above the Grade A raw limit in bacterial count while nine were below the Grade A pasteurized and both dealers in Grade A raw sold milk with a count far below that of the Grade A pasteurized that was sold.

With just one exception all that the raw milk sold here lacks to make it Grade A is the bacteriologic test. Whether or not this is going to be required should be determined without further delay. If it is to be required, an ordinance should be adopted to go into effect at the end of a reasonable time, perhaps six months, in order that the herds may be tested and cleaned up. The plea that dairymen fear to have their herds tested is an additional reason for believing that local herds are infected and need cleaning out.

In the meantime and regardless of any later action that may be taken the milk standards should be raised. It is senseless to permit the sale of Grade B raw with a bacterial count of 200,000 when for many months it has been shown that 90 per cent of the dealers can supply milk running from one-fifth to one-fortieth or better of that count. It is equally senseless to permit a 100,000 count in Grade B pasteurized when it is shown that the milk sold contains only from one-fourth to one-eighth the count permitted. We should have an immediate raising of the standards, with the highest count permitted in Grade B raw not more than 100,000—50,000 would be much better, with a proportionate tightening of the requirements for Grade A and pasteurized milk.

This is not dream stuff, but a practical way to encourage and require further improvement in the city's milk supply which, under supervision and encouragement has in a few years come up from a condition that the Board of Health was afraid to tell the public of for a year or more after it first began a systematic supervision and examination of milk.

Even conceding that the milk makers are right or that Dr. Chandler is right in his more radical statements there is no reason why there should not be immediate improvement that is possible while we are waiting for the sterilized milk millennium to arrive. Nor does anyone want to drink fertilizer even if it has been boiled.

THE POOR AND THE COURTS.

The Legal Aid Society, now celebrating fifty years of growth and service, was the result of pressing need and not an expression of mere radical sentiment or complaint, as the more fortunate among us might think and even might hastily charge. The need of providing adequate defense in the courts for persons too poor to provide it for themselves has been recognized by lawyers themselves and emphasized by the highest representatives of the bar, such as William Howard Taft and Elihu Root. Speak in behalf of the Legal Aid Society several years ago. Chief Justice Taft declared that for the citizen "without money to avail himself of the courts" the "soundest declaration" of the Bill of Rights is "more honored in the breach than in the observance." That is why legal aid societies have come into existence in the large centers of population throughout the country. Between 1922 and 1925 the number of cases increased from 45 to 55, it is greatly to the credit of the legal profession that, like the great society in New York, they for the most part have been voluntarily financed and managed by lawyers.

But why should a country so advanced "for the people and by the people" be forced to rely on private wealth and contribution in order to have justice for the poor in the courts? In regard to this anomalous and deplorable situation Chief Justice Taft is quoted as saying: "It seems to me that ultimately these instrumentalities will have to be made a part of the administration of justice and paid for out of the public funds." Obviously justice for all will not be a fact until then.

Apparently there is more than a vigorous survival of Russia's old custom of sending undesirable citizens to Siberia. A recent account reads: "When almost daily trains carry hundreds of exiled students, soldiers, merchants, intellectuals, and even Marxists and Zionists, to Siberia, it would be strange if Siberia as well were not exiled."

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

NATURE'S FIGHT FOR US.

Someone has ventured the opinion that man is destined to be fully destroyed by insects, germs, microbes or other organisms.

We cannot shut our eyes to some of the arguments set forth to prove this contention, but on the other hand, the discovery of a Frenchman d'Hérelle, may place man in a position where he will have no fear of any of the above named enemies.

In 1905 he was working in Mexico, studying an outbreak of yellow fever, which occurred at exactly the same time as a plague of infected grasshoppers.

He discovered that even as small an organism as a microbe can in turn be invaded and destroyed by a yet smaller organism, which he called the bacteriophage, or bacteriophage, the last part of the word meaning to eat or destroy. Hence the name.

If an infection of any kind gets into the body how much damage it can do depends upon the number of these other organisms, the bacteriophage. A single bacteriophage will graft upon a microbe, and within an hour fifty of these young bacteriophages are developed, and each will then attack another microbe. In the space of some hours all the microbes present are destroyed.

Thus the fate of an individual depends upon the bacteriophage present, and this, according to d'Hérelle, depends upon heredity to a great extent.

If the microbes of a certain ailment get into the body one of three things happen.

If the bacteriophage present are in sufficient numbers and strength, the microbes never get a chance to do any damage because they are all destroyed at once. If the bacteriophages are not strong enough at first, but acquire sufficient strength in a few hours to destroy the microbes, then again no damage results.

If, however, the microbes are such that the bacteriophage can't destroy them, then the infection gains headway while the bacteriophage is gaining enough strength to destroy it. When they have got strong and numerous enough then the infection disappears.

The work of this scientist has been recognized by the Royal Academy of Sciences of Amsterdam by the gift of their medal given only every ten years. Pasteur received it in 1895.

This would indicate that scientists believe that d'Hérelle has given the world something worth much to mankind.

It will not be long before we learn more about this interesting "fight" that nature puts up for us.

Back-Yard Silkworm Farm

Thousands of school children in the United States are their first-hand knowledge of the industrious silk-worm to T. A. Kieker, an amateur entomologist of Washington, who for 20 years has been experimenting with silk worm culture in his own back yard. On half a dozen mulberry trees he raises from 10,000 to 20,000 of the creatures a year, distributing them among schools as living exhibits. Every cocoon contains from 750 to 1,000 yards of silk thread.

Today's Story in New York History

Gallant Seventh Regiment Met on April 16, 1861, and Unanimously Resolved to March Forthwith.

"Civil War has begun." These four expressive words starting from the morning newspapers as the day dawned on Saturday, April 12, 1861, burned into the New York soul like molten iron. A terrible fight had been twenty-four hours in progress at Fort Sumter.

Then came the message "Fort Sumter is on fire!" The excitement grew more intense and everywhere, in banks, shops, offices, and public places nothing was talked of but Charleston, Fort Sumter and the war. Among the common people a panic was at one time created by the suggestion that New York would be next attacked.

The Sabbath was a day never to be forgotten, and on Monday, April 15, the President's call for 75,000 troops to retake and hold the forts and protect the property of the government, was met with immediate and decisive action. From every walk of life men stepped forward and offered their lives.

Meanwhile, the New York Seventh Regiment, or National Guard, the pride of the city, representing in its very composition the foremost families of wealth and influence, boldly declared itself for the flag and the Union. A meeting was held on Tuesday, April 16, at which forty officers were present, and the following resolution unanimously adopted: "Resolved, That the Colonel be requested to notify the Major-General that this regiment responds to the call of the country as made by the president through the governor of the state, and that the regiment is ready to march forthwith."

The magnetic influence of such prompt action upon other militia organizations was immediately apparent. The tidings that the New York Seventh would march in the van to the relief and defense of Washington went with the speed of a whirlwind from mouth to mouth, from city to city, and to the remotest confines of the state, trailing the fire of enthusiasm all along its course.

Late Wednesday evening Governor Morgan ordered a regiment to be formed, and before midnight Major General Sanford had detailed the Seventh Regiment under Colonel Lefferts for immediate service at the national capital.

The regiment assembled at its armory on Friday when 945 reported for duty, under Colonel Marshall Lefferts, and his efficient staff.

On Friday, April 19, while the gallant Seventh was bidding adieu to home and friends, the Sixth Massachusetts Regiment, which passed through the city the day before, had reached and was being mobbed in Baltimore. This thrilling news increased the frenzied enthusiasm, and the excitement as these heroic, dignified, and well-disciplined men of the Seventh Regiment wheeled into column, and swept down Broadway, with their forces Washingtonward, was sublime, almost terrific. It was less a march than a triumphal procession. The Seventh Regiment had answered their country's call, the minute-men of the Revolution.

It will, perhaps, never be known how much those one thousand of the flower of the city of New York "contributed by their presence to save the capital from hostile occupation. It was sufficient that since the "First Defenders from Pennsylvania, who arrived in Washington early in the morning of April 18, President Lincoln could announce that "the Seventh Regiment and the Massachusetts are now in Washington. There was great need of reinforcements, but Washington may be considered safe for the country and the Constitution."

During the war New York gave to the military service 473,443 men, of which number 16,000 militiamen entered the army for a less term of service than three months. In addition to other enormous expenditures for the war, the state of New York disbursed over $25,000,000 to its soldiers in bounties alone.

Many sons of the Empire State earned places in the hearts and affections of their countrymen and proved the spirit and patriotism of their people. No state contributed more to preserve the Union.

Good Progress in Legion Minstrel

The annual minstrel show of Kingston Post, No. 150, American Legion, will be given in the high school auditorium on Monday and Tuesday evenings, April 26 and 27. The members are rehearsing faithfully under the direction of Harry H. H. H. and it is expected the show will be bigger and better than ever. Tickets will be placed on sale by the members the first of next week and as half the net proceeds are to be given to the building fund of the Kingston City Hospital, it is hoped the show will be well patronized. The next rehearsal of the troupe will be on Thursday evening, April 22, in the Legion Memorial Building.

Salvation Head

GEN. BRAMHALL BOOTH

General Bramhall Booth, world head of the Salvation Army, has arrived in America for a tour of army posts in this country.

Miller Heads Committee on Fidac Scholarships

Thomas W. Miller, member of the national executive committee of the American Legion from Delaware and president in 1925 of Fidac, International veterans' federation, was recently appointed by President George Croftfield (Great Britain) as international chairman of the committee on Fidac scholarships.

The committee is engaged in working out plans for an interchange of students among the nine allied countries represented in Fidac. The international committee will be assisted by a national committee of fifteen in each country. The American committee will be appointed by National Commander John R. McQuigg in the near future. Scholarships are being sought in standard colleges and universities in each of the nine countries. It is hoped that at least eight such scholarships will be established in every member country by the opening of school next fall. This will provide one scholarship for each of the other member countries. Scholarships will be awarded on the basis of an essay contest conducted by the associations in their respective countries.

Gift From Upper Egypt

From far-away Egypt on the Nile a gift of $50 for the American Legion endowment fund for disabled veterans and orphans of the World war reached national headquarters at Indianapolis recently. The gift was made by Louis A. Barnes, a missionary, formerly of Pasadena, Cal. "With best wishes for the Legion and their great work, and may God's blessing be upon them," the missionary wrote.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service)

CHENEY'S RECORD LONG AND VARIED

Joseph Young Cheney of Orlando, Florida, public utility owner, manufacturer and "big league" business man has one hobby—the American Legion.

Mr. Cheney was elected national vice commander of the Legion at Omaha in 1925 because Legionnaires had watched him devote seven years of untiring efforts to his hobby in his home town, his state and in the nation.

"I know of no Legionnaire in the country who is more thoroughly and completely a Legionnaire than Joe Cheney," declared a high Legion official recently.

Cheney is one of Florida's busiest business men but he is perhaps the "goings-on" Legionnaire in the nation. He has attended every state or national conference or convention of the Legion since the inception of the organization. He believes that men who served in the war together should get together as often as possible and at any Legion gathering of consequence he is among those present.

Mr. Cheney began his World war service early in 1917 as a cadet in the second officers' training school and received a commission as a second lieutenant. He was assigned to the Seventeenth Infantry. Later he was transferred to the One Hundred and Fifty-fourth depot brigade at Washington, D. C. He was discharged as a first lieutenant in January, 1919.

His Legion record is long and varied. He has served as post adjutant, vice commander and commander; as department adjutant, alternate national committeeman and in 1924 and 1925 as national committeeman. Then came his elevation in 1925 to national vice commander.

The fun and honor organization of the Legion, the Forty and Eight, is Joe Cheney's second hobby. If he has one. He is a past grand chief de gare, which translated means "the big chief" of the Forty and Eight of Florida. Joe Cheney's wife doesn't call Joe on the carpet for putting in so much time on Legion affairs, for she has a hobby of her own—the American Legion Auxiliary. She is the president of the department of Florida of the Auxiliary.

Your deeds count a whole lot more than your creeds.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

WHAT GORDON FOUND

The camping trip on which Gordon and Harry and Bob had gone had been one of the best ones they had ever had. There had been no rain. The nights had been clear, moonless and with bright blue stars filling the darker blue sky. After supper was over and before they had put out the fire they had sat around it and told stories—mostly stories their fathers had told them of camping trips they had made into these same woods, of many a tenderfoot who had thought the idea so nice until darkness had come and every unknown rustle in the wood had been a fearsome one. A tenderfoot never seemed to amuse them, though they could stand a tenderfoot who, though a little timid and alarmed at first, showed signs of improvement the second night out and was an enthusiast at the end of the trip, even though with little knowledge of the woods.

But a tenderfoot who talked a lot about outdoors and then was afraid of everything but the sunshine was of no use save as a joke-figure for anecdotes and stories.

They had been lucky with the trout they caught. Harry headed the list with thirty and Bob with twenty-seven and Gordon with twenty-six. They could have caught more but they did not think their families or their friends could use up more than these. So many were going camping now, and fishing, and as they named over the list of those to whom they would give some of their fish they found the list, because of fishing members in the family, was small.

So the last day they had done very little but wander through the woods, finding odd stones and curiously formed rocks, discovering new trails and hidden lakes and tumbling waterfalls.

Gordon was making notes of much that he saw, going back to compare them with notes he had made on other trips. In fact when the others went to bed a little later that next night, because they could get home in plenty of time no matter if they did oversleep in the morning, the gentle, curious, beckoning sounds of early morning in the woods made him get up.

The woods always made him get up ahead of time, where with the others the faintly rustling quiet of the woods and the smell of spruce made them long to sleep over time.

Practically everything was ready for breakfast, the packing up for the return trip took little time, the breaking up of camp was not a lengthy affair, and the fire was ready for lighting, while the first two pieces of bacon reposed already upon the forked stick.

Off into the woods Gordon went, silently abusing himself for the noise he made breaking the twigs as he went along, the lumbering steps he took. How quietly a moose, for all his great antlers could go through the woods. How slightly stirred the underbrush as a rabbit darted through it.

He, a boy, made as much noise as fifty animals. And then he heard a noise above even his own clumsy racket. It was a whispering sound, a sound that was a little like crying, a little like cooing, a little like loneliness. Gordon could not quite make it out.

He went in the direction from which the sound had come. There, evidently just waking up, was a bear cub, almost black in color.

Where was the mother? Where were the brothers and sisters, or at least one or two members of his family? Why was he here, alone, just waking up?

Gordon went over to the cub carefully. Even a cub could give nasty scratches if his disposition happened to be bad, and one of the first rules of the woods was not to be afraid, but at the same time not to be a fool.

But the cub was not crafty. He was lonely and deserted and miserable. He had been looked after until the day before. Then something had happened to his mother. She had gone off to get food and had not returned. And there had only been himself left. His two brothers had lived so short a time he had quite forgotten them.

But none of this could be told. Only he whispered and whined and cried a little more plaintively than ever when he saw that some one was going to help him.

That's how he came to breakfast with me! Gordon said. And taking a card out of his pocket he laid the little bear back in the camp where warmth and a welcome rest gave him.

Big Bonewood Tree

The tree at Bonewood, known to many parts as the bonewood, was introduced into England in the sixteenth century. A tree of Bonewood planted in Switzerland in 1670 attained to 125 ft. the trunk being 30 feet in circumference.

THE SHOCK OF DISCOVERING THAT THE HEIRLOOMS AMY INTENDED TO SELL AS ANTIQUES HAD BEEN COMPLETELY REJUVENATED BY HER WAS SOMEWHAT DISSIPATED WHEN HIS GOOD INTENTIONS CAME TO LIGHT.

I GUESS MY GOING INTO THE ANTIQUE BUSINESS WAS JUST ANOTHER WILD IDEA—EVERYTHING I TRY FLOPS—I COULDN'T DIG UP A PLOT FOR ANOTHER STORY, AND NOW THIS FALL—I HAD A PREMONITION SOMETHING WOULD HAPPEN TO THOSE HEIRLOOMS—I COULD FEEL IT IN MY BONES—WHEN I MOVED INTO THIS HOUSE I DIDN'T KNOW 'BAD LUCK' LIVED HERE—

WASN'T BE DISCOURAGED—THAT WANSAN AND POLISH WILL ALL COME OFF—A SIMPLE THING LIKE THAT IS MY SPECIALTY—YOU YOURSELF USED TO SAY THAT WHEN I GOT THROUGH FIXING ANYTHING IT LOOKED WORSEN BEFORE—MEMBER?

HONEST?—DO YOU THINK YOU CAN FIX 'EM BACK THE WAY THEY WERE? MAKE THEM OLD-LOOKING?

WELL, I CAN LOOK 30 OLD YOU COULD EVEN SELL 'EM TO METHUSELAN AS ANTIQUES—THESE GET-RICH-QUICKS WILL BE COMING ROUND BY THE TRUCKLOADS SHOVELING OUT THEIR DOUGH FOR 'EM THERE'LL BE SUCH AN UPGRADE THE POLICEMAN WANT TO KNOW WHAT IT'S ALL ABOUT!

WHEN CAN YOU DO IT?—HOW LONG WILL IT TAKE—WHAT WILL YOU NEED—WHERE WILL YOU DO IT?

IT'S SUCH A TRIVIAL MATTER, I HATE TO WASTE TIME DRAGGING THE STUFF AROUND—I COULD DO IT RIGHT HERE!

USING THE NEW POWER TUBES

Two Extra Batteries and Two Simple Changes Necessary.

F. M. Russell.

CHANGES NECESSARY FOR USING NEW POWER TUBES

The new power tubes are rapidly replacing the 199 and 201a type of tubes in the last stage of audio. The reason for this is that the power tubes not only increase the volume but also improve the tone quality very considerably. The improved tone is particularly noticeable when a cone speaker is used. Generally when this type of speaker is used on a receiver using only 90 volts on the last stage of audio, it will rattle and appear to overload easily.

Cone speakers give wonderful quality when used in receivers that have undistorted output and that use 135 volts on the plate. The impedance of the power tubes is very low and that is just what is wanted for most high-grade speakers.

As you will note from the diagram the changes necessary are very simple. You will require an extra 45-volt "B" battery and a small 22½-volt "C" battery. This is where you wish to use the dry cell power tube.

The only changes necessary in the wiring lines in the audio. You will probably have the two negative filaments connected together with a lead going to the 4½-volt "C." Disconnect the wire between the transformers so that the 4½-volt goes to the negative filament of the first audio only. Now connect the negative of the 22½-volt to the negative filament of the second audio. Disconnect the 90-volt lead going to the bottom of the last jack and connect the 135-volt lead in place of it and you are ready to operate.

Peking Now in State of Chaos

Peking, April 16.—Peking was in chaos today as it awaited developments attending the sudden flight of the People's Army, which had been defending the capital against the besieging armies of General Wu-Pei-Fu and Chang Tso-Lin.

Ten thousand heavily armed police under the command of a group of elder statesmen were doing their best to maintain order. The gates of the city are locked and the population is in a state bordering on terror.

The president of China, the premier, and half the cabinet are hiding in houses in the legation quarter. The future is extremely uncertain, much depending upon the attitude of the invading generals.

The general belief is that the allied forces will enter Peking today.

Foreigners Safe.

London, April 16.—All foreigners in Peking are safe, the foreign office was advised today. There have been no disorders in the foreign quarter of the city, the dispatches said.

LAST NIGHT on THE RADIO

Little static, no fat frying, wonderful reception from super-power stations and very much DX were the conditions last night. The fat fryers, burblers and gurglers exhausted themselves in the afternoon but subsided in time for the late afternoon program from WJZ.

Nobody need have missed DX, for with the Syracuse University concert from WJZ, the Royal Hour, "Voice of the Silent Drama" (what a phrase!), and Record Boys from WJZ, there was ample variety delivered loud and clear.

Detroit must have some wonderful nightbirds who are on the way to making nightbirds of the radio fans all over the country. The community singing program from WJZ began late, was extremely well done and was still going strong at an hour when all good people should be asleep in bed. Excepting the Kansas City Nightbirds, the KTVW Insomniacs Club and a few other professionals, Detroit holds the record for night hawking.

What has become of the Cough Drop Brothers, Trade and Mark, who for some time sang nobly in the interest of the chief product of the Cough Drop Metropolis?

The professor who wrote so learnedly a week ago of his discovery of magnetic whirlpools should have tuned in on WJZ last night. He would have found that he had to reverse his directional loop.

It was hard to leave those Detroit Community Singers. Not even one blooper blooped on their wave length. Probably all of the bloopers were on WJZ waiting to hear "Horses."

DISHES FOR DINNER

The potato, the commonest and most often served food of our time, is in most homes limited to a half dozen ways of serving.

Potatoes Cooked in Broth.—Cut the potatoes into balls or they may be cut into cubes; the waste bits may be used in creamed or mashed potatoes. Cook the potato balls in boiling salted water for five minutes, then drain and finish cooking in well-seasoned broth.

When tender, drain and sprinkle with salt and finely minced parsley. This is a good dish to serve for those who cannot eat meat.

Hamburg Steak With Brussels Sprouts.—Chop one pound of steak from the top of the round, and one-half pound of cold water and a teaspoonful of salt. Mix thoroughly and shape into small cakes. Grease a hot frying pan lightly with a bit of fat and lay in the cakes, turn to cook on both sides. Have ready a smooth brown sauce to which has been added a few tablespoonsful of chopped mushrooms and a little chopped onion. Have the Brussels sprouts cooked until tender, drain, season well with salt, pepper and butter, shake over the fire until the sprouts have absorbed all the sauce. Place the steaks in the center of a hot platter and arrange the steak around them, pour the sauce around the steaks.

Escalloped Cabbage.—Wash and cook cabbage as for hot dish. Prepare a white sauce. Butter a baking dish and put in a layer of boiled cabbage, then a layer of white sauce, sprinkle with grated cheese and continue until all the cabbage and sauce are used. Brown each layer with salt and pepper and bake twenty minutes.

Hot Apple Dumplings.—Peel, quarter and slice six apples. Put three layers of dumplings in a buttered dish, cover with sugar and raisins and a cupful of water. Bake in a hot oven for one hour. Remove the cover and set dumplings over the top of the apples; return the dish to the oven for browning and serve hot, with or without cream.

CONGRESS PRAISES NAVY.

Philadelphia, April 16, 1776.—Congress received today the official report of Commodore Esek Hopkins on his expedition to the Bermudas and the encounter of his fleet with the British man-of-war Glasgow on April 6. The report caused great satisfaction. The Marine Committee recommended that, as a special honor to Hopkins, the British schooner Hawke which he captured recently be renamed the Hopkins.

President John Hancock will send a letter of congratulations to the Commodore which will say in part: "Your account of the spirit and bravery shown by the men affords them (Congress) the greatest satisfaction, and encourages them to expect similar exertions of courage on every future occasion. Though it is to be regretted that the Glasgow man-of-war made her escape, yet, as it was not through any misconduct, the praise due to you and the officers is undoubtedly the same."

President Hancock's reference to the Glasgow affair is a delicate allusion to criticisms of the navy for failing to capture the Glasgow. There has been other criticism because the fleet sought no encounter with the British ships along the southern coasts, but opinion is divided as to the wisdom of the Commodore's course in this respect.

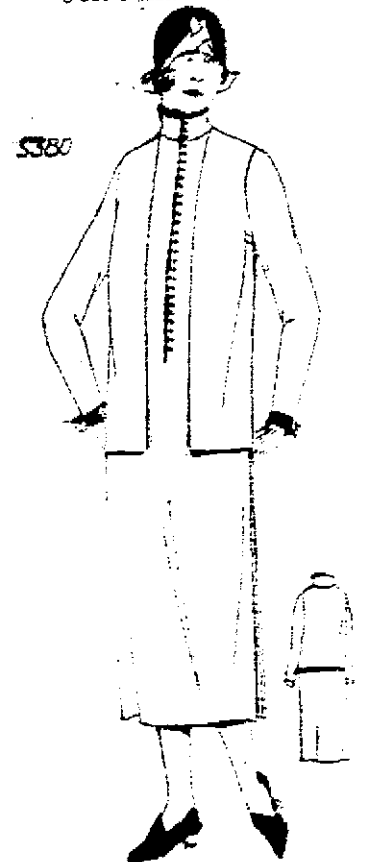

The future plans of the navy have not been announced. The presence of a number of enemy ships in New England waters calls for energetic action in that quarter, while news of the arrival of a big British fleet off the Virginia capes is now expected at any time. In the meantime the Commodore is experiencing enlistment difficulties. Sick leave has thinned his crews and recruiting has been almost at a standstill for various reasons, chief of which is the attractiveness of the privateering service which, in addition to furthering the cause of liberty by interfering with the enemy supply service, affords greater money returns to the men engaged in it. This situation is giving much concern to the Marine Committee.

Word has come of the recent capture of two American vessels by the British Phoenix near Newport, Rhode Island, shortly by their retaking by the Americans. Another recent capture is that of a British schooner in small vessels from the Grenadines with 354 puncheons of rum, 12,500 weight of coffee and other provisions valued in all at 6,000 pounds sterling.

Commodore John Manley of General Washington's fleet will receive his commission tomorrow as a captain in the navy of the United Colonies.

SCHOOL DAYS

A Thousand or So in the Bank

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

A CLOUD will float across the moon
A flimsy nothing that will pass;
I have seen shadows at high noon
Linger a moment on the grass
And so do thoughts both dark and dour
Trouble humanity an hour

Yet no one doubts the moon is there.
Or doubts the sun shines overhead;
The shadow of a passing care
Should find us full as comforted—
Yea, when a shadow dims the skies
We need not linger where it lies.

From dark to daylight is not far,
A man may step from shade to sun;
And, when the moon is hid, a star
One still may find to comfort one.
From thought unhappy we may turn
To happy, if we will but learn

Thoughts are our servants or our kings,
Tyrants or subjects, as we will.
Only the fool to something clings,
Some load unneeded, on life's bill,
When man may leave old thoughts behind
And in new thoughts new joyance find.

I hope you are the master, not
The slave of thought. I hope that you,
When comes a cloud, no matter what,
Step out of darkness back to blue,
Have strength of mind and strength of heart
To bid each gloomy thought depart.

I think God dreamed a mighty man
To sit in splendor on a throne
And dare his destiny to plan—
Made each man master of his own
Yea, you your goal will miss or find
As you are master of your mind.

Cling not to shadows! As your feet
At morning brush away the dew,
Turn from the sad thoughts to the sweet,
Turn from the old dreams to the new!

When o'er the grass the shadows run,
Step out of shadow into sun!

Among the NOTABLES

MARIE BONAPARTE

MARIE PAULINE BONAPARTE, born September 20, 1780, was one of the numerous family of brothers and sisters of the great Napoleon. She was quite the most beautiful of the girls, and the gayest in nature—two qualities that endeared her to her illustrious brother, but that also brought her into more or less trouble.

Like the rest of them, she was born in Ajaccio and shared the rise in the family fortunes. When she was seventeen she married one of Napoleon's staff officers, General Le Clerc, and went to live at St. Domingo. He died in 1802, and, as a young widow, a mere girl of twenty-two, she came to enjoy the society in Paris. She was exceedingly popular, had her portrait done as Venus reclining on a couch (after the artistic fashion of the time) and married the Prince Borghese. She went to Rome with him, but tired of it there and came back to her beloved Paris. Various escapades started gossip about her—especially her rather off-hand treatment of Marie Louise, which caused her removal from court.

This sobered her a bit, and she accompanied her brother in his first exile to Elba, and, indeed, after his overthrow, to live with him at St. Helena. But this request was denied her and she died in her favorite city, Paris, of cancer. She was about forty-five, still young-looking and exceedingly beautiful.

"AFTER all," said Ambush Peeve, who had been reading Snuffer, Maenchenbater and other philosophers on the subject of war—"after all, war is a biological necessity. Despite the temporary hardships and inconveniences that it entails, war is the great leveler, and the great purifier. War is a tremendous force that, in the last analysis, is an absolute necessity. With no wars to cleanse and invigorate, mankind would gradually sink to the level of the brutes and would become extinct through fatty degeneration of the brain and morals. Yes, it is best to look the matter dispassionately in the face—war is beneficial, salutary, in fine, as I said, a biological necessity."

"Ambush, your dinner will get cold if you go on talking," his wife admonished. "Besides, I am anxious to see what you think of my first real war dinner—everything strictly according to the food administrator. The biscuits are one-tenth flour and nine-tenths potato meal. The butter is made of peanuts and turpentine, and instead of frying the steak in butter, as usual, I fried it in cottonseed oil, and when you taste your coffee, which you'll notice is all prepared for you, you'll see that I put in molasses instead of sugar, and a mixture of chalk and water instead of milk. Go ahead and try everything, Ambush."

Ambush Peeve tried a biscuit. Then he tried the steak and the coffee. "After all," he said, as he sniffed the butter—"after all, war seems so unnecessary."

The Hotel Stenographer

"SHE says she is happily married." The Hotel Stenographer put the accent on the second word.

"But you do not believe her?" asked the House Detective, hooking the thumb over his shoulder toward the departing girl.

"Kelly," replied the Hotel Stenographer, "it is impossible for any unmarried person to get the low down on matrimony. Like death, it is something you have the experience to find out about. I sometimes think it is about as dangerous, too."

"People who are really happily married are so crazy about each other and live in such a blissful daze they are afraid to tell anybody just how foolishly happy they are for fear people will not believe them. They have reached such a state of emotional insanity that they are afraid to talk for fear people will either laugh at them or call the warden which plies them the crazy house and the world at large."

"The ones who have put their money on the wrong horse keep their lips buttoned because they do not like to admit that they walked into a trap seeing nothing but the bit of cheese until after the parson sprang the trigger and caught them for life. We do not like to admit we have been stung. It hurts our abiding faith in our good judgment."

"Matrimony is a court in which there are no disinterested witnesses. You have to buy your pie with nothing more than a peek into the mouth of the bag, you swap your jackknife of thirty-eight moon for another which may have most of the blades dull or broken. About the only chance any young couple has is where her father is a minister and his a lawyer, so the one father-in-law can undo what the other did, in case home does not come up to the expectations of the new owners."

"He must have turned south down here," grinned Kelly.

Tested for weather wear
~ this motor finish stands up in hard service

PANELS painted with Devoe Motor Car Finish are placed upon the slowly turning wheel of the "weather machine."

Artificial sun rays, rain storms and frost attack it. In a few days this machine concentrates on it all the weather wear it would receive in months of service on your car.

Devoe Motor Car Finish must and does stand up under this gruelling test before it leaves the factory. It is easy to apply and levels itself without brush marks or laps. This overcomes the one big difficulty of auto painting. Devoe Motor Car Finish is guaranteed to give satisfaction when applied according to directions.

For the outside of your home, for the walls inside, for the woodwork, the floors, the furniture, there is a practical Devoe paint, varnish, or enamel, backed by Devoe's 172 years of experience. We recommend Devoe products. Bring your paint and varnish problems to us, and get dependable advice.

Who Will Give Children Homes?

Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson Tells Story of Development of Two Ulster County Girls Who Went to Childless Homes Elsewhere.

Are there childless homes in Ulster county where homeless children would be welcome?

This question is asked today by Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, chairman of the child adoption committee of the State Charities Aid Association.

The facilities of the association in finding homes for homeless children are made use of by Mrs. Mary C. Doremus, children's agent for Ulster county. Since the local children's agency was organized, homes have been found for 47 Ulster county children, thus assuring them normal home life and educational advantages.

Mrs. Gibson points out that it is comparatively easy to find homes for the few little tots, especially those with blue eyes and blond hair, but it is not so easy to find homes for the older children. She adds, however, that these older children are just as sterling and long just as eagerly for a home and parents of their own as do the younger children.

The committee at present has a number of older boys and girls for whom it wishes good homes, and who, it is confident, would bring joy and life into childless homes in this county.

Mrs. Gibson today gave a typical instance of two Ulster county children who found homes through the work of the committee.

"One morning twelve years ago," she said, "an Ulster county truant officer was in despair over two girls of twelve and thirteen who were continually running away from school. She found that they had neither parents nor homes and were being shifted about among neighbors."

"As chairman of the child adoption committee, I am proud to say that we took the responsibility for Jane and Barbara, these two Ulster county girls, and that they are now two of our finest young women. In the western part of New York state was a childless couple who lived on a farm. Jane went to live with them and in a year was their adopted daughter. She has her own home now and recently wrote to the association of her healthy three and five-year-old children. Her foster parents are very happy with their grandchildren. Barbara found her home in the southern part of the state and now keeps house for her foster father as her foster mother has died."

Mrs. Gibson emphasized the fact that these families did not take Jane and Barbara for work or for any material help that they could give them, but as their own daughters.

"The years have proved," Mrs. Gibson continued, "that these two girls gave far more than they received." She added that this is a universal experience and that every day she receives letters from foster parents telling her how much joy the children bring to their home.

Mrs. Gibson feels that there are many families in Ulster county who would welcome these children between the ages of six and fourteen and give them their chance just as these other counties gave two homeless girls from Ulster county their opportunity.

Is there a child in your home? If not write for information to Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, chairman of the child adoption committee of the State Charities Aid Association, 105 East 22nd street, New York city, or to the local children's agent, Mrs. Mary C. Doremus, 74 John street, Kingston, N. Y.

"Where do you live, dear?" asked the new neighbor of wee Dorothy. The little one pointed to a handsome residence with wide verandas. "Why, I live in that broad-brimmed house," she answered.

Travel Far and Fast

Salmon travel long distances in short periods, scientists say. Identified by marks of tags placed in their fins, they are often found from 500 to 1,200 miles from their starting point in less than a month.

Came Here in Child's Interests

Paris, April 16.—Gloria, Gould Bishop, after a secret flying trip to New York, is again on the high seas, bound for Paris, according to advices received here.

Friends say that Mrs. Bishop now plans to institute proceedings for a divorce from her husband, Henry A. Bishop, Jr.

After arriving in Canada quietly last week, Mrs. Bishop is reported to have made a hurried trip to New York and then to have sailed on the Aquitania for France on Wednesday.

In response to a wireless query sent to the Aquitania, Mrs. Bishop sent the International News Service the following enigmatic reply:

"I went to America primarily in my child's interests."

"It has been said that my love for a career has wrecked my home. Every woman in the world will appreciate my attitude when I say that it is my home is ever wrecked it will be because of an older, more sacred, more lasting and more important reason than love for a career—love for my baby."

"The steps I take in the future will be for her welfare, happiness and contentment. It doesn't matter what the world will say about me."

Lively Corpse

A woman, whose husband had just died, went to a village store to buy a burial shroud. The storekeeper showed her one, naming the price. "I can go to the next village and get one for half the price," protested the widow. "Yes," was the retort, "and the corpse will have his knees through in a week."

Valuable Stone

Pencil stone is a hydrous aluminum silicate. It resembles talc in color, feel, luster and structure. It is used as an ornamental stone, as a gem, for slate pencils and for the "talc" or "talcum powder" of commerce. The Chinese carve pencil stone. In the United States it is found principally in California and North Carolina.

TOO MANY "DRUNKS" ON BOSTON'S STREETS

Boston, April 15.—There are too many intoxicated persons on Boston streets. This was the warning given to patrolmen today by Police Commissioner Wilson. Intoxicated persons must be taken off the streets in the interests of the safety of the public, said the commissioner. He noted that particularly on Saturday evenings and Sundays policemen were allowing "drunks" to wander the streets at will.

In Memoriam.
In loving memory of Raymond Huston, who departed this life on April 15, 1926.
Earth has lost its look of gladness,
Heaven gains to be more bright,
Since the spirit of our dear one
Took his happy homeward flight.
And we long to cross that river,
Long to rest upon that shore,
There to see, to know and love him,
With the Savior, evermore.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 16.—A strong and active market for the railroad stocks imparted strength to the motor and industrial stocks today, and after an early reactionary movement, prices continued their forward movement.

The approval of the Commerce Commission for the accession of three directors of the Frisco system to the Rock Island directorship, thus paving the way for the consolidation of these lines, stimulated buying of the stocks of these and other railroad companies. Prices advanced 1 to 3 points in representative eastern and western railroad shares, as well as in the second grade bond issues of the respective companies.

Short covering in the motor stocks resulted in spirited rallies in Hudson, General Motors and White Motors. Hudson advancing about 7 points from yesterday's lowest figure and General Motors up 4.

The local traction stocks continued to move forward under the lead of Interboro Rapid Transit and Third Avenue.

Pullman spurred nearly 4 points to 159 1/2 as the result of speculative buying based on its excellent earnings report.

French francs repeated their almost daily performance of dipping to a record low quotation. Commodity markets were fairly steady.

GOOD ROADS

WASTE IS BUGBEAR IN ROAD BUILDING

Few motorists as they roll smoothly over the magnificent pavements now found in many parts of the country realize the detailed and painstaking research which preceded the laying of the pavement. To many, a road is a road, and no matter what the type of surface or the local conditions, road building to them is largely a matter of smoothing the ground and providing some kind of a hard surface.

But had such a policy been followed, millions of dollars would have been wasted, and the country would today be mired in a bog of replacement, repair and reconstruction. Because of the foresightfulness of engineers in charge of road building this possible waste has been prevented, and the pavements being laid today are the best possible.

Road construction, as practiced today, is a highly specialized business. Good, permanent construction insures years of earning power and the saving of millions of dollars in transportation costs. Poor construction means waste that mounts into almost countless figures.

Foremost among the possible sources of waste is the construction of roads of lower type than justified by traffic. Tests conducted in many parts of the country have proved that a road should be built according to its maximum requirements rather than to its minimum. A dirt road carrying a traffic of 110 tons per day, in general, will pay for gravel in ten years by the saving in operating costs. Traffic on a dirt road exceeding 610 tons per day or traffic on a gravel road exceeding 1,450 tons per day will, in general, pay for a concrete, brick or asphalt road in fifteen years by the saving. These figures, established by the Iowa highway commission, are today being taken as standard for determining the type of surface justified.

Scientific research has established some remarkable facts about subgrades. Formerly it was held that all soils could be drained, no matter how wet and unstable in their natural condition. On the Bates road in Springfield, Ill., two years were spent in investigating drainage. Tests firmly established the fact that in clay soils, little can be done to reduce the moisture content by drainage. The wastes in highway funds saved through this research returned taxpayers millions of dollars.

Again referring to the Bates test, which is perhaps the most comprehensive yet conducted, tests have made it possible to build a road which is permanent and able to stand up under any given volume of traffic if properly maintained. Through research the public is now protected against building road pavements too light for the volume of traffic which will use the road and which break down under traffic.

Similarly, after having determined the volume of traffic, road builders need not build a pavement too heavy for the traffic the road will carry. This saves overinvestment in road pavements.

Good Roads Challenge

Hard-surfaced roads eliminate isolation, which signifies progressive civilization. All the country is rapidly forging ahead to that much desired goal when millions of cars and trucks can negotiate the highways without wrecking their high-priced machinery and burning vast quantities of valuable fuel to force their way from place to place by plowing furrows during rainy periods, on all our dirt roads. The hard-surfaced road will present to each town or city through which it passes with remorseless persistence, this ultimatum: "Do or die; function or perish from the earth." If such there be, the builders of each city will decide its destiny and the business men its fate.

Good Roads Hints

Good roads is a matter of vastly more than convenience or political coacery.

The best is the cheapest applies to road construction as well as to anything else.

Good roads are making our farm lands worth more, therefore they are a good investment.

A central system of highways has been established—the federal 7 per cent system of approximately 200,000 miles.

Eighty-eight motorist companies are operating 900 buses and covering more than 2,000 miles on hard roads in Illinois.

Good roads can only be secured through scientific methods of construction, reliable contractors and time-tested types of pavement.

Some states refuse to let the federal aid system have any say in co-operation with the states for uniform design and direction in road building.

Old Medical Instrument

One authority says that the first medical instrument was the flint used to cut the flint into the shape of a knife and other instruments in record of such origin is being preserved in the Latin name "flint."

SAY MAN HELD LITTLE CHILD ON RED HOT STOVE

Brooklyn Bricklayer Is Arrested on Charge Made by the Mother.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Jeremiah Sheehan, forty-two, a bricklayer, is charged with having held his three-year-old daughter, Nora, on top of a hot stove in their home, 108 Calver street, Brooklyn, until she screamed with pain.

Severely burned about the legs and back, the girl is in Greenpoint hospital in a serious condition. Meanwhile, Mrs. Sheehan, soon to become a mother for the fourth time, and her other two children are being cared for by the Brooklyn Children's society.

Neighbors told detectives they heard the child's screams a few minutes after the father entered, and rushed in to find Nora crying hysterically.

Police charge that Sheehan came home intoxicated. His wife was marketing. Daniel, eight, and John, six, were playing in the street. Only Nora was in the house.

5 Children Are Born to Couple in Year

Charlottesville, Ill.—Mrs. Leslie Hobbs of this city has added five members to the Cass county population within a year. She is thirty years old.

On January 20, 1925, she gave birth to triplets and less than a year later she again came to the front with a pair of twins. There are four other children in the family.

IS CREMATED TO "MERRY WIDOW" AIR

Shipbuilder's Directions Followed at Rites.

London.—To the lit of gay music, including strains from "The Merry Widow" waits, the coffin of Alexander M. Carlisle, famous shipbuilder and friend of the former kaiser, was taken from the chapel at the Golden's Green crematorium into the furnace chamber for cremation.

The ceremony was arranged by Mr. Carlisle himself a few weeks ago, when he knew his death was near. He paid in advance for his own cremation and had the receipt framed. He also settled the fee of the funeral organist.

"I have no fear of death," he said. "I want nobody to grieve. Therefore I have paid for and instructed the organist to play the waltz from 'The Merry Widow.'"

There were no formal religious rites, no hymns and no prayers. About a dozen mourners were in the chapel, including Mr. Carlisle's daughter, the Baroness Von Versen. In the midst of the unusual ceremony she collapsed.

Dying Surgeon Bars "Humbug" at Funeral

Marion, Ohio.—Dr. Benjamin Merrill Ricketts, sixty-eight years old, of Mount Gilead, internationally famous surgeon, made this unusual death-bed request of an old friend, Dr. A. Rhu: "I'll have no minister, no priest, no humbug. Cremate my body and scatter the ashes over the graves of my mother and father."

Doctor Rhu announced that the unusual request will be carried out. The body was taken to Cincinnati for cremation. The ashes will then be taken to Proctorville, Lawrence county, and strewn over the graves of Doctor Ricketts' mother and father.

Doctor Ricketts was known throughout the world as an authority on surgery of the heart, lungs and throat. He was born May 20, 1858, at Proctorville, Lawrence county. He attended Ohio Wesleyan university and took post-graduate medical courses at Miami Medical college, Columbia university and the Skin and Cancer Hospital, New York city.

Law Forbids Rich Man to Move Wife's Body

Paris.—Sir Basil Zaharoff, reputed to be the richest man in Europe, and popularly credited with being the largest stockholder in the Monte Carlo casino, must bow to the regulation of the Monaco principality in the drafting of which he was greatly instrumental, and cannot remove the body of his wife, who died in February, for final burial at his chateau at Belin-court, France, until a month hence.

The ordinance provides that a body shall not be removed from the principality until six weeks after death. It was promulgated with the object of putting an end to sensational stories about the bodies of gamblers who had committed suicide being smuggled out of Monaco. One of the first to come under its application is the "mystery man of Europe."

Gossip Sends Woman to Death With Son

New York.—The waters of the Kill Van Kull, off Sallor's Snar Harbor, Staten Island, tossed up the body of Mrs. Minna Silvert, washing it ashore at Fort Wadsworth. The woman and her four-year-old son, Otto, disappeared eight days ago from her home in New Brighton, Staten Island. The boy's body was found two days later.

Because a male friend, found of little Otto, escorted the two home from a theater one night, the neighborhood scented a scandal. The mother was openly insulted on the street. She couldn't stand the torture, so, clamping her son in her arms, she leaped into the icy waters.

Whips Bar: Banned, Quiets Carnival Panic

Kalamazoo, Mich.—Patrolman Ray Shuster grabbed an enraged bear around the neck here, threw him to the floor and held him until he was lashed with ropes, thereby quieting a panic at a lodge carnival and preventing the bear from escaping from the hall.

The bear clawed and bit Joseph Short, his keeper, during the performance and started for the door. Women screamed and a rush for the exit ensued.

Short was taken to a hospital with a wound in the abdomen. Shuster was clamped but not seriously hurt.

Man for Bachelor Bates, Mo.—Oyster county

has a barren for bachelors. In four years only two marriages have been recorded in the county, which has a population of 4,000.

Roman Columns

The greatest length of the Colosseum of Rome is about 515 feet; the length of the shorter axis of the ellipse, 390 feet; the height is about 150 feet. The seating capacity was 55,000 people. The dimensions of the arena were 281 feet by 177 feet.

Tiny Church

The smallest Catholic church in the world is on the Old Palm Ake plantation in Louisiana. The chapel is large enough for a small altar and stained glass for the priest celebrating mass. The congregation occupies benches outside of the chapel.

FIRE PREVENTION.
Question—When a frame building burns down, what is left? Answer—The chimney alone, because it is built of brick. Chimneys are built of brick because they are fireproof. Why not construct the whole building of brick, that is Real Fire Prevention. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. When you build, use brick exclusively. There may be a slight increase in first cost, but always a large saving in maintenance. Building brick and sand. TERRY BROTHERS CO. Tel. 1674.

Tagging Major League Bases

Cy Williams, pinch-hitting in the sixth with a runner parking on every base, smacked his second homer of the season, enabling the phenomenal Phillies to again take the Braves over the rapids, 8 to 4, and retain the league leadership. Harry Riconda, Boston third baseman, broke his left leg sliding home.

The Athletics turned on the Senators like a snapping turtle, pounding out a 9 to 3 victory while Pate, Connie Mack's star rookie, held the champions to two hits in seven innings. Washington made five errors.

Chicago continued to set the pace in the American League by lacing the Browns again, 11 to 4, driving Zachary to the showers. Helpless before Blankenship's pitching in seven of the nine innings, Slater's sluggers folded up like a Paris hat in a shower.

Vic Keen, former Cub, making his first appearance for the Cardinals, whitewashed the Pirates, 2 to 0. Hornsby collected half of the six hits the Cardinals got off Johnny Morrison.

Due to a shortage of eskimo suits, no games were played between the Giants and Brooklyn, the Cubs and the Reds, the Yankees and the Red Sox, and Detroit and Cleveland.

GAME SATURDAY
AT EPWORTH HALL

Much rivalry existing between the Conquerors and the Unconquerables, Sunday school classes of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church from the scholarship point of view the two teams will take the floor Saturday evening in Epworth Hall to settle a much mooted question of which class is superior at the basketball lore. This great battle will start at 8:15, a preliminary contest being played by two girl teams at 7:15.

The Unconquerables will have the following brilliant line-up to choose from: Ken Hyatt, C. Snyder, R. Snyder, McGuinnis, Ballard, Schoonmaker and Manager Howard of the Independents. The Conquerors will do their best to live up to their name with a line-up chosen from the following players. Rod Chipp, Slater, Smith, DeGraff, Markle and Dingman.

Girl's Essay on Men
From a schoolgirl's composition:
"There are three kinds of men—husbands, bachelors and widowers. An eligible bachelor is a man of obsequiousness surrounded by suspicious. A widower is a man someone has rescued as he goes down for the third time. Making a husband of a bachelor is one of the highest plastic arts known to civilization. It requires science, sculpture, common sense and faith, hope and charity, especially charity."—Exchange.

Mostly Unpleasant
If we are all paid ultimately according to results, as many persons hold, there are big surprises in store for some of us.—Charleston News.

PITCHER RETARDED BY USING TOBACCO

Results of Experiments at Johns Hopkins University.

Famous baseball pitchers who suffer occasionally from lack of control would have less difficulty in "locating the plate" if they were total abstainers from the use of tobacco, according to experiments at Johns Hopkins university.

The experiment, as conducted by Dr. Robert L. Bates of the psychological laboratory of the university, was made with darts rather than with baseballs, the pointed arrows leaving a sharp mark for study. Approximately 6,000 dart throws were measured in the experiment.

Six undergraduate students of the university were used as subjects, their habits varying from occasional smoking with heavy inhalation. As in the case of baseball pitchers, the students showed evidence of temperament and a tendency to experiment with their shots.

Using standard 10-cent cigars and a well-known brand of cigarettes the students took turns smoking and pitching at the target.

The amount of tobacco actually smoked was measured to the fraction of an ounce.

The pitchers were found to be more accurate in their tosses upon days when they refrained from smoking.

However, a temporary stimulation was registered immediately after smoking, aiding the accuracy, but when the effect had worn off the shots became so poor that many missed the target entirely.

The attitude toward the experiment was found to be largely affected by the use of nicotine, the "pitchers" showing their "temperament" upon several occasions by becoming discouraged by their initial shots, suffering from the "blues" and other forms of mental unrest.

Noted Tennis Star

Mile. Contostavlos, the noted tennis star, was a participant in the recent festa tournament at Monte Carlo, France, in which Fran Neppach, Mile. D'Alvarez and the king of Sweden were taking part. This photograph shows Mile. Contostavlos in action.

All Were Bobbed Except the "Little Pokerface"

Miss Helen Willis, besides possessing the most powerful forehead drive ever seen in woman's tennis on the Riviera court, holds the distinction of being the only unbobbed player out of the 32 entered in the recent tournament.

A hairdresser at the Hotel Metropole, while preparing the champion's headpiece prior to her appearance on the courts for practice one morning, asked, "Why don't you bob your hair, Miss Willis?"

"I am too old-fashioned," replied the twenty-two-year-old champion.

But while thousands of spectators applauded her during her match against Mrs. Aeshlimann, an elderly British countess in the audience was heard to remark:

"I love her because she has not sacrificed her beautiful hair to a foolish fashion."

Baseball Player Today Rated as Business Man

"What's the difference between the player of today and the old-time player?" was the question put to Grover Cleveland Hartley, veteran catcher, in the Giants clubhouse.

"Well," replied Hartley, "the ball player of today is a far better business man than the ball player of yesterday. The player of today knows the value of Florida real estate, and he knows his value as a box office attraction. And when it comes to signing his contract he lets the club owner know he's a business man as well as a ball player."

That's the difference between the ball player of today and yesterday. The old-time player was smart in a baseball way, but a poor business man.

Olympic Body's Paper

The British Olympic association is now publishing a journal, the aim of which is to bring the young people of the country interested in athletic sport into closer touch, to give expert advice on such matters as training and organization, and, as Earl Cadogan, chairman of the council, says in a foreword to the first number, to assist in "spreading the true British spirit of sportsmanship through all nations."

Germs "Boom"

In London you can get a bargain in germs. A quarter of a dollar will buy millions, and you can have your choice of more than 2,000 kinds.

There has been a great demand for germs lately from laboratories and hospitals, according to Popular Science Monthly, and workers in the Lister Institute are kept busy feeding, raising and bottling them to ship to the far corners of the earth.

Many of the germs are cranky bachelors, and the chef has to make special dishes for them. A favorite food is beef tea, but others will touch only dishes in which eggs are used. Toppers in the assembly demand alcohol in their foods.

Some of the germs demand a lot of codding. The "flu" germ, for instance, has to be kept at a certain even temperature in an incubator night and day lest it catch cold and die.

Says Whales Do Have Legs

Whale legs? Yes, they're like man's wings, say the skeptics. But it's a fact. Whales do have legs, as was definitely established by Charles Huxley, a professional whaler.

Miler recently obtained an embryo whale two inches long when cutting up a 60-ton female whale killed off Bay View, Wash. It had perfectly developed legs. Whales are mammals, and even full-grown whales have undeveloped legs. Through thousands of years of evolution the limbs gradually have dwindled until now they can be seen only on a grown whale when it is dissected.

In "Chuck" Concern the Cords have a dual ruler for George Stiller. Cords get his beautiful looking on a member of the Diamond Club, a man sponsored by Arthur Dunsen, wealthy St. Louis sportsman. "Chuck" is only seventeen and has great promise.

USEFUL AT HOME.

Everyone needs new dusters and new brushes in the Spring after house-cleaning has taken the "pep" all out of the old ones.
